

Dear Friends and Colleagues,

welcome to the October issue of ADVANT Beiten's International Briefing.

On 15 September 2021 three independent law firms ALTANA from France, Beiten Burkhardt from Germany, and Nctm from Italy have launched their European alliance ADVANT and recently we celebrated our 3rd birthday.

ADVANT has changed and enriched our work, allowing us to rely on extensive practice and insights of our Member Firms to provide a better and seamless experience for our clients across our ADVANT jurisdictions and beyond. We have achieved a lot, and we strive for more.

In this issue, of course, we will highlight interesting developments in the European and German legal landscape, invite you to meet us at international events and tell you about our clients' successes.

Enjoy the read!

Employment

Against the current and prospective economic background, restructuring efforts will likely become more and more relevant in Europe. ADVANT is providing an overview of employment specifics that must be considered when restructuring companies in France, Germany and Italy:

Restructuring in Europe.

Tax

Working from home has become an established and integral part of many employment relationships. Companies need to carefully consider the wider consequences of the rise of the cross-border home office, however, as the creation of a permanent establishment could have significant tax – and therefore financial – implications. There are also notable differences in both the definition and the tax treatment between jurisdictions. The following article examines the similarities and differences in approach across France, Germany and Italy: Tax aspects of remote working in France, Germany and Italy.

Competition

Market definition permeates every competition law assessment. It is an essential tool to define competition's boundaries: Who competes with whom? What is a company's market power? Will the merging companies face sufficient competitive constraints in the future? In the following, we present both the Commission's revised Notice and its very first applications by the French Competition Authority, the European Court of Justice and the Commission itself: The European Commission's Revised Market Definition Notice in Practice.

Real Estate

To assist in navigating a complex and highly localized European real estate sector, we take a closer look at the legal framework of commercial leases in France, Germany and Italy: Commercial Leases in France, Germany and Italy.
